Beech is a plentiful, sustainable, carefully managed species that makes up a majority of the hardwood forests in Europe. It offers durability similar to Red Oak, with a grain pattern that is often compared to Maple.

The overall look of Beech is fairly consistent, with very little difference in the appearance of the heartwood and sapwood (see graphic). Colors will vary from light to mid-tone brown, with some darker brown heartwood streaks.

One of the most unique properties of Beech is the way the appearance of the grain pattern changes with different stain colors. In the three samples below, tiny ray flecks are revealed with a light to medium stain, while Java showcases grain variations.

Beech and Rustic Beech are offered in Framed and Euro; Beech is also available for Closets Plus.
