Oak is the most abundant U.S. hardwood species and is widely used for manufacturing cabinets and furniture. It is a dense, heavy wood that is very hard, with an open grain pattern and textured surface.

Natural characteristics of Red Oak include mineral streaks, ray flecks and pin or closed knots. Colors range from white and cream to a warm, pale brown, tinted with red. Red Oak is well known for its bold grain pattern with lots of movement.

Red Oak is offered in all four of our product lines, in a wide variety of door styles and stain colors. Painted oak is available in our custom Framed and Euro cabinet lines.

Looking for a different take on painted cabinets? Consider Red Oak - the bold, open grain patterns will show through the paint, adding visual interest and texture. Here, painted oak is paired with a stained oak island.
