With its unique, straight grain pattern, VG (Vertical Grain) Fir is one of the most distinctive looking woods in North America. Grown in the Pacific Northwest, this beautiful coastal species provides designers with a clean look that complements modern designs.

Known for its dimensional stability, VG Fir is tight-knotted and close-grained. While large knots are rare, pin knots, dry pitch pockets and mineral streaks may be present. Colors will vary from shades of red, pink or yellow, with an overall rosy tint. Classified as a softwood, VG Fir is fairly light, and the surface dents easily.

VG Fir is offered in our Euro custom frameless line, in a curated selection of door styles and stain colors.

Like Cherry, the color of VG Fir will darken and redden over time and with exposure to light. The rate of color change will depend upon the amount of light, especially sunlight, the wood is exposed to on a daily basis. When adding or replacing VG Fir cabinets, it will take some time for the new cabinets to blend with existing product.
